

TACKLING THE ECONOMIC CRISIS

The workplace has changed forever, and in the aftermath of the Covid pandemic, maintaining a productive and profitable workforce means re-shaping the way you engage your teams.

WELLBEING

Obviously, wellbeing and happiness are the genuine priorities, but how do you achieve these, whilst also maintaining the focus of your people and ensuring the continued growth of your business? Money will almost certainly be at the heart of many a conversation.

INCOME MARGINALISED

We are entering a period where finances are going to be tight, especially with inflation now predicted to hit somewhere around 18% in early 2023, so money and the remuneration packages your people receive, means your business could come under unwanted pressure.

THE SOLUTION

A simple shift of status in your relationship with your workforce means you can unlock benefits in tax efficiency for both parties. For you and your business it means improved efficiencies and some big savings. For your workforce it means more disposable income in their pockets at the end of each month, resulting in a happier individual and a more productive team.

At The TMS Group we have been working in partnership with employers for 15 years, helping build happier, more fulfilled and more productive workforces, whilst legally and compliantly optimising efficiencies for all involved. We would be delighted to show you how you can save BIG for your business, whilst also keeping your team ahead of the financial curve!

Get in touch with Steve Meade on either steve.m@tmsgroupuk.com on 07490 813918 to get a better understanding of how you and your team could benefit.